EDITORIAL

Terry Goodman

This issue marks the beginning of our fourth year of the Missouri Journal of Mathematical Sciences. Time flies when you are having fun! We are most pleased with growth of participation in the journal - more readers, contributors of manuscripts and problems, and referees. If you find MJMS to be interesting and informative, please share it with a colleague. More readers give us more ideas and information to share.

We are interested in devoting a future issue of MJMS to a specific area of mathematics (i.e. - topology, algebra, etc.) or a specific theme (i.e. – revision of the calculus, use of technology in the mathematics classroom, etc.). We want to gain direction from our readers as to the focus for this special issue. We encourage you to write and provide suggestions for possible themes or areas of focus.

Finally, we encourage you to submit manuscripts and problems to MJMS. Certainly, students are encouraged to submit ideas and problems. The exchange of ideas and information is the lifeblood of any professional journal and we appreciate your contributions.
